Introduction

In the past, Asian Congress on Biotechnology (ACB) has been an important exchange platform for the academic community of biotechnology and bioengineering in Asia. Previous events indeed have successfully promoted the understanding and cooperation between academics or between industry and academia. In ACB 2019, we like to further provide a platform for dialogue between all sectors of bioindustry in Taiwan and whole Asia to initiate innovation driven by close collaboration between industry, academia and government. Therefore, the Bioindustry and Biobusiness Symposium & Expo will be added to ACB2019.

The Symposium & Expo will include both company presentations and booth exhibitions within four major themes: Nutraceuticals, Biocosmetics, Sustainable Agriculture, and Bio-entrepreneurship. The event is attracting a wider audience of professionals in the bioindustry include famous and well established enterprises, startups and investment representatives.

In the company presentation, we will invite representatives from biotech companies who are successful in the research and development, manufacturing processes, or marketing to share their experiences or prospect on the development of biotech industry and business. The attendants could be inspired by experience sharing and have the opportunity to find an entry point for collaboration or new directions for business development. In the dynamic exhibition, each participant will have a booth to display their own goods or business ideas. The participants will be able to explain to interested visitors, and they can also take the initiative to visit other relevant manufacturers to display and provide opinions and exchange contact information.
